Gem Ladies' Club Elects Officers

The Gem Ladies' Community Club held its annual election Wednesday, Sept. 14th. There were fourteen ladies present.

The meeting was at a standstill for a while, since Mrs. Brown declined the nomination for the presidency. After much persuasion by the ladies present, Mrs. Brown let the nomination stand, as everyone was unanimously in favor of Mrs. Brown, and requested that she consider it for the present at least. Needless to say, Mrs. Brown was elected. Mrs. Hyrre was then elected Vice-President, Mrs. Wallace secretary, and Mrs. Vise, treasurer.

Mrs. Samdahl was re-elected as convener of the lunch committee. Mesdames Archibald and Hyrre were elected to the visiting committee, and Mrs. Heyford, convener of the entertainment committee.

The financial report showed remarkable progress during the year. Five hundred dollars were turned over to the Gem Community Club towards the building of the hall. And every one felt more than pleased over the results of the last year.

Scout Notes

As usual, last Thursday evening, another Scout meeting and work out took place at the school.

About three quarters of the Troop were present with two newcomers putting in their appearance and suffering with the rest of the boys.

Physical training, once more brought its hated list to the fore and for one hour and some odd minutes it tortured the lads who are apparently straining every muscle in order to get the best out of every exercise.

During all this the skilful newcomers did their best and shivered in their boots even when the Scoutmaster gave a thundering command. A bit of mischief made its way into the meeting via Ramsey, Broadfoot and spread rapidly until soon the whole Troop was in an uproar. Ramsey had to prove his agility on several occasions when he became necessary for him to dodge Mr. McLeary firing too or hard knuckles. Following this exhibition of P.T. and laughter, two or three of the lads were given a severe calling down as to their physical ability and their performance in doing the exercises, which they did rightly claim were hard on a boy's constitution.

The Scouts, with much added zest, then indulged in a short period of signalling practice, which was also accompanied by much laughter until the law was temporarily laid down.

A full turnout is requested from now on, and all boys of eleven years or more don't forget that applications may be made until the end of this month.

School Notes

With this term of school now in full swing the students, with the exception of three at the time, are settling down to hard and diligent work. Each morning the Geometry class are seen welding calipers and rule, later the language struggle with foreign verbs, historians with Social Studies and Grade XII as usual are hardly ever seen to lift their eyes from the text with which they are working.

Recesses and noon hours are now the scenes of many a hard game on the basketball court. A team of the smaller boys from Junior and High Schools have been chosen and play

Local Hospital Receives Word of Appreciation from Distant Patients

As the result of valuable and friendly assistance rendered by members of the local hospital staff, Dr. A. G. Scott, and the citizens of the Town of Bassano, considerable mention has been made of our town of late in the press of nearby cities. Following are two letters reprinted from the Calgary Alta and the Regina Leader respectively.

GENOA ROTARY CLUB SENDS BASSANO THANKS

An expression of international good will, addressed from Millerville, Georgia to Bassano arrived at Calgary Rotary Club office last week as a result of an automobile accident several weeks ago.

Six young Georgian women, touring through Canada by automobile, were injured in a head-on collision with another car August 6th on the Medicine Hat road, 20 miles west of Bassano. They were taken to Bassano Municipal Hospital and treated by Dr. A. G. Scott for cuts, bruises and shock. Following a stay of some length of time, they all returned to their homes in Georgia.

The women were Miss Josephine Penn and Miss Maude Penn of Montpelier, Georgia; Miss Nina Brown, Social Circle, Ga.; Mrs. G. Hart, Madison, Ga.; Miss P. Foy, Madison, Ga.; and Miss Park, Madison, Ga.

Week D. C. Howard, president of the Calgary Rotary Club, received the following letter from Guy H. Wells, president of Rotary in Millerville, Georgia.

Dear Sir:—

The Rotary Club of Millerville, wishes to convey through you to the management of the Bassano Municipal Hospital and the citizens of that town our very sincere appreciation of the fine courtesy shown to a group of young women who were detained in the hospital for several days because of an automobile accident.

Miss Foy, one of the group is secretary to the immediate past-president of our club and she has written most enthusiastically of the cordiality shown her and her companions throughout their experiences in your community.

We take this another evidence that the bonds of humanitarianism and brotherhood transcend territorial boundaries and national loyalties. This note is addressed to you because we feel that Rotary International is the best medium for the cleaving of expressions of international goodwill.

Yours sincerely in Rotary,
GUY H. WELLS,
President
Millerville Rotary Club.

FROM HIS HOSPITAL BED HE SENDS HIS GRATITUDE

(From the "Torchebearer Column" Regina Leader.)

DEAR TORCHEBEARERS, I would like if you all enjoyed the pleasure as much as I did. Being miles away from Saskatchewan and in a strange hospital, among strange people, I enjoyed them immensely. To hold hands of assistance, I would like my sincerest appreciation for sending me all the Torchebearer magazines during my three months in a strange land.

I remember a few days after I was carried into the hospital I had asked the doctor if they could send me "Rags" to Regina or Moose Jaw General hospitals, where I could be nearer my own home and the friends I'd left behind. But he merely said "No, but we'll take care of you here."

I now know that the doctor knew if he had sent me to Regina I would never have reached there.

And although I shall be dependent on the help of the hospital, again and back among the friends and fields I have known and loved so long, I know that I shall miss the new friends that the nurse here, shall miss the doctor's friendly smile and cheery word for I never realized before how kind strange people can be.

My dear Torchebearers, the young men and girls of Bassano came to my bedside and gave me strength to carry on.

Bassano is about 60 miles from Calgary, 40 miles west of the town of Brooks, Alta., and is one of the prettiest towns I've ever seen.

The hospital is situated north of the town and surely is a pretty sight. The grounds are all surrounded by tall poplars and evergreen trees and colorful flower beds.

School Field Day to be Held Oct. 7

The teachers of Bassano, Brooks, Rosemary, Gem, Hussar and several other districts, met in Brooks on Saturday, to plan the annual fall field day.

Bassano will play host to the other towns on October 7th, when the children and teachers of these districts will be here to participate and officiate in the days activities.

Training for the races, jumps and throwing events is in full swing and every indication of a well organized struggle for honors is evident. Boys and girls are painting more and more interested each year and every field day adds its quota of first-timers.

Sometimes a discovery of latent skill is made and the promising youngster gains that gleam of thrill of leading the field.

That red ribbon decorates the corner of the house for a year, but more important than that, a leader is born, who may lead the field in his chosen walk of life.

We expect to see the parents out to witness the field trials, and so we offer one and all the invitation. Try to like to pick the winners and to see purely amateur athletes in action. You will enjoy it.

We could say that some of our competitors are Provincial Champions in several events and that these field trials in Bassano are a preview of a high caliber of performance. However we know that the people of this district must have watched this exhibition in the world of sport, with enough appreciation that we do not need to rehearse the deeds of these young men for their benefit.

Mr. William and Mr. DeKamman returned from Picher Creek Thursday.

The Pollock family and Ralph and Evelyn Ferguson visited at the Ferguson home at Coanville last Sunday.

William and Callions left Tuesday for Edmonton to attend the funeral of a niece. The Gem Colony expresses its sympathy in their sad bereavement.

BRITAIN'S LOST PRESTIGE

WHAT HAPPENED TO the prestige of Britain that was once the pride and boast of every Britisher? Has it diminished any in recent years and if so when and why?

For the last two hundred years or more in all parts of the globe the prestige that was Britain's was great in the council chambers of the world. It probably reached its peak in the latter days of the Victorian period, maintained that level during the Edwardian era and possibly up to 1933, but certainly not thereafter.

We are convinced the first serious blow was struck by the ignoble failure of Gallipoli when on January 7th, 1916, the British forces turned their backs to the enemy and moved off the beaches won at so much hazard, and at so little purpose. The Mohammedan world heard of that and scarce believed. They have seen much since then.

Britain headed the parade of disarmament under the leadership of pacifists equipped with wishbones in place of backbones until 1933, whilst sinister figures secretly aimed and planned "revenge" as will shatter policemen in the pious, but false hope that all crime will automatically cease. The world saw that and, in certain parts of it viewed with disdain and skepticism her belated, even if heroic efforts to accomplish in four years the work of a decade.

Japan thumbed her nose in open derision over Manchukuo and later over the war "which has never been started" in China proper, and when the "Armada" that once was great deployed in the Mediterranean in its empty gesture to Il Duce, the whole world "stared" at the futility of it, except those whose consciences made them gully.

Hitler, almost without a protest, marched on the Rhine and thereby tore up "another scrap of paper," conquered Austria without a shot being fired and now apparently is about to grab off a sizeable piece of Czechoslovakia by the same route.

In Spain the policy of non-intervention meant intervention because of inability not to intervene in some form or other in this case that of ineffectual and harmless protests which had better never be uttered.

Trouble in Arabia, trouble in Ireland, trouble everywhere! And now! A voice or a leader to stamp it out or correct an abuse if one existed.

And last but not least, that hurried and voluntary aeroplane ride to interview Kaiser Bill's modern counterpart! A noble thing! A courageous act! A heroic gesture. A diplomatic triumph. So it was at first proclaimed. But for what? To appeal to reason, and, failing that, "to read the riot act?" Not on your life! But just the dismemberment of a puny state, and the breach of a solemn treaty obligations by the ally of that state. We doubt which sounds the worst: the default of France or Britain's advocacy of that default.

These are some but not all of the reasons why Great Britain has lost caste and countenance in a sphere where her influence was great and is now negligible, and if a licking is to be administered it may as well come now as later.

Papering cracks, which soon re-open, is a dangerous and harrowing business in private life. In international affairs, it is slow suicide. And so it has proved.

Read what Douglas Jerrold had to say in 1936 and consider the situation then as compared to now.

The voice valedictory was silent over Cape Hellas on January 7, 1916. It is silent over most of Europe today. We are now too busy continuing what was then begun, striving for a palm which can be won without dust and heat. We have certainly escaped the heat. It was very cool on the night of January 7, 1916. It is cooler still today.

THE WHEAT CROP

A CROP OF 300,000,000 bushels of wheat, the largest Canada has ever produced since 1932 valued at $200,000,000 will probably be harvested and marketed from the 1938 Canadian wheat crop.

For Canada as a whole and for business it is undoubtedly a great boon. But what about the individual farmer, and what is he going to do with the money?

In the first place, even with the price pegged at 80 cents, he is going to have but little to spare after meeting the expenses of production. This will be especially true of the irrigation farmer, whose production costs are relatively higher. No matter how honest or how wise in his intentions may be, (and we are of those who believe that there is still a great body of agriculturists who believe in meeting their contractual obligations according to the terms of the contract) it is becoming increasingly clear that the farmer will have but little, if anything, to spare to apply on account of debts other than current expenses.

Then, if he has any money to spare after the years of want and hardship, who, in justice, can really blame him, if he should decide to buy some candy for the kids some dust to wear (other than gum) socks to which he was never reduced), some machinery that will work when work is required, some paint for the kitchen, and some coal that will throw heat for the winter months in adequate quantities. On these and kindred essential things the farmer will probably spend his surplus cash, and he is entitled to do so, within reasonable limits.

The results, of course, will be that part of private debt (of the ancient vintage) which has been waiting so long and, in some cases so expectantly, for liquidation, will have the pleasure postponed for still another year. A large part of it ought to be of old age soon and be given decent burial without recrimination.

So far as creditors are concerned, they are for the most part, like the farmers themselves, reasonable men, and do not expect the impossible. Knowing the yield, the price and having a vague idea of production costs, they also know that these ancient assets (if carried this long) will yield but little this year and are quite content to do business with their farmer customers on this year's business and are thankful for it.

Perhaps the most gratifying part of the 1938 crop however has been the ability of the soil, given rain in fair quantities, to confound those expert pessimists who prophesied so falsely that never again would certain fields and certain areas produce grain in paying quantities. The recuperative powers of the soil has almost proved, and has lent encouragement to try again to those who almost listened to the prophets of doom.

DEFENDING CANADA

Australia and New Zealand, two countries far away in the South Pacific and always in peril of invasion in case of war, have taken extensive defensive precautions. Although both countries have smaller populations there is not close at hand a mighty nation ready to aid in their defence.

If Canada is to become a great nation she should make plans to provide for at least a measure of military defence, and not be so dependent upon others. While we must be appreciative of the assurance of aid from Britain and the United States it would be better for our nation if we took steps to help ourselves.

STAINLESS SILVER

After three years of research, a group of metallurgists in Britain believe that they have discovered the secret of rendering silver stainless. If they are right, the discovery is a labor-saving device that will be welcomed by the housewife, and perhaps lead to a renewal of the fashion for collecting silver, with resulting prosperity for the silver-smiths.

Today, silver must compete for favor with a variety of imitations, some without a stain upon their character; but none of these succeed entirely in reproducing its peculiar beauty and in doing so much justice to craftsmanship that, as a recent exhibition has shown, is still a living tradition, not unworthy of descent from such masters as Cellini. One hopes that the Royal Mint will not neglect the new discovery, and the opportunity it affords of supplying perennially bright lucre.

"CASE FOR ALBERTA"

A copy of the "Brief" entitled the "Case for Alberta" as prepared by the various experts acting for the provincial government has been received at the Observer Office. It is a hefty document, comprising over 405 pages, and is full of information.

A casual reading of the first 375 pages reveals that the province has presented a very strong case, quite fair, and without any particular bias in a political sense. Even the accused Liberals are not blamed so very much for the position in which the province finds itself today. Acknowledgement is made of the fact that when the province came into being in 1905, the government of the day had to institute road-building programmes, including the necessary ferries and bridges, had to commence an educational system, had to provide for social services, had, in short, to build from the bottom up. Wide-spread settlement, some of it in doubtful areas, contributed to the difficulties which confronted the early governments—and the latter governments too.

Anything like even a limited review of the Brief is quite impossible in these pages. It is sufficient to say that the case is admirably presented and quite creditable to the government. It is our opinion that the Brief should have been laid before the Rowell Commission whether or not the government agreed with the method of appointment or the personnel of that commission. There was no sense in prejudging a good case by a very evident attempt to antagonize the Commission and, through it, the Dominion Government.

—The Calgary Observer.

THE WAR DEBTS AGAIN

Recently the Saturday Evening Post utilized the bulk of its editorial page to malign Great Britain for her failure to pay the war debt she owes Uncle Sam. The whole case was reviewed and the conclusion reached that the British had been "pretty slick" in evading the war debt.

However, the real problem of re-payment was never mentioned. The British could make payment in but two ways: with gold or goods. The United States did not want the goods and her tariff barriers effectively kept out large imports. The British could not repay in gold for the reasons that it was physically impossible. There wasn't that much gold lying loose in the world. The United States had the bulk of it already.

Today the United States has 55 per cent of all the gold in the world, and steady importations are continually increasing that percentage. If debtor nations are to make payments the United States will have to accept goods. If she won't do so she will not be paid.—Hanna Herald.

SERVING A GREAT FIELD

From United Grain Growers' terminal at Port Arthur to that at Vancouver is over 1,800 miles. It is over a thousand miles in a straight line from the most easterly of the Company's elevators to the most westerly one. Its most southerly elevator is 500 miles further south than its most northerly elevator. It is a vast area which is served by this farmers' company. Because of the great area served, it has resources, equipment, organization and information enabling it to give every possible protection to the interests of its farmer customers.

Organized by farmers, owned by farmers, controlled by farmers, this Company's essential purpose is now, as it has always been, to be of service to farmers. The experience of farmers throughout the vast area served proves that this purpose has been carried out throughout the Company's history of more than thirty years.

Literary Society Organized B.H.S.

Last Friday afternoon, the first meeting of the 1934 Literary Society was called in the local high school.

To start off the program, Mr. Moore, principal, explained the importance and the educational viewpoint of a Literary society to the students, and described the various chapters that may be followed.

All students in Grades XI and XII were in favor of pursuing the point, and voted to that effect when called upon to do so.

However, Grade X, newcomers to the high school room, were somewhat slow in voicing their opinion, but before the meeting was over, did manage to vote on a couple of occasions.

Officers were elected to hold office till the end of 1935. Ramsey

Broadfoot will warm the President's chair till the new year, and Bob

THE EASTERN INDUSTRIAL WORKER

"You're going on a long journey ... EAST!"

The Eastern Industrial Worker is one of the West's Best Customers

That tearful cow will have lots of company on its long trek East: 175,704 other head of cattle for instance, 21,144 calves and 41,567 hogs — these figures representing Eastern consumption of Western livestock in 1933. Besides these huge shipments on the hoof, Eastern industry consumed more than 80,000 tons of Western fresh dressed meats; 10,000 tons of butter; 6,600,000 pounds of poultry and over 20,000,000 eggs; the whole bringing a total revenue of over $40,000,000 to the Western producer.

The Eastern industrial worker is one of the West's best customers, but he can remain so only when actively employed. Your purchase of a Canadian-built car helps keep him, and his fellow-workers in the parts, steel, paint, glass, chemical and other industries — on the payroll; puts them all in a position to buy more of your goods.

For statistical and further information about this industry, write to Automotive Industries, 1006 Lansden Building, Toronto.
